Daily Market Report

HEAVY OFFERINGS OF MARINE SHARES

New York, May 4.—Transactions in International Mercantile Marine shares far exceeded dealings in all other issues on the New York stock exchange today. Before the end of the first hour the preferred stock showed an extreme loss of 2 3/4 at $5 1/4 and the common 2 3/8 at 23.

Opposition to the proposed readjustment plan of the preferred stockholders was the reported reason. The preferred and common opened at advances but reacted on heavy offerings, combined sales in the first hour aggregating 75,000 shares, or more than forty per cent of the total.

New York, May 4.—Specialties of various descriptions including Mexican, munitions, shipping shares and the distilling issues score material gains in the first half hour of today's moderate trading. Industrial Alcohol was the foremost feature, rising over five points, with two for Mexican Petroleum and 1 to almost 2 for Crucible Steel, Baldwin and American Locomotives and Studebaker. Anaconda also rose a point and the marines made partial recovery from yesterday's heaviness, with large dealings in the preferred.

Reading and New York Central improved, but Canadian Pacific was fractionally lower.

MILK TESTS ARE MOST FAVORABLE

Milk marketed in Ogden by dairymen from the surrounding suburban districts is above the state average in quality, according to tests just completed, under the direction of State Dairy and Food Commissioner Heber C. Smith. The tests were made in the new laboratory of the Ogden city sanitary department.

In the report made by Federal Inspector F. H. Bethall and State Inspector O. F. Peel, the results of the test were very gratifying to the local board of health. Inspector Smith, in making his report, congratulates the city commission for its hearty support of the department.

PATIENTS OF DOCTOR PARADE AND ARE PHOTOGRAPHED

This morning was the time set for Dr. F. J. Frenor to appear in court and show why he should not be punished for contempt, but the case has been postponed until May 26th. The doctor's patients, not being aware of this fact, appeared this morning at 10 o'clock to the number of three hundred or more to enter a protest against the proposed proceedings for contempt. It was the intention of the patients to accompany Dr. Frenor to court, and when the doctor advised them that his case had been postponed, he presented each with white carnations and roses in appreciation of their thoughtfulness and sympathy. Some of the members of the committee had badges printed on which was printed the words "F. J. Frenor Chiropractor", and one of these badges was presented to each of the patients present, and then approximately half of the number of patients paraded around the street, visited the City Hall Square and had their photograph taken with the doctor. Practically all of the patients were persons who had received beneficial treatments from the doctor. Many of the patients were outspoken in their expressions, claiming it was a crime to interfere with the doctor when he was doing so much good. When a Standard reporter asked some of the patients what the doctor had done for them, A. J. Cleland said he had asthma all his life and that the doctor had cured him. J. W. Krigbaum said his wife had convulsions every four weeks for about ten years and treatments of Dr. Frenor had been so successful that she has not had a convulsion for over twelve months. And in like manner many other patients spoke. Space in the Standard forbids telling what all of them said.

The patients all felt that they are denied the rights guaranteed them under the constitution. They feel that their freedom is being abridged when they are denied the right to employ Dr. Frenor to help them. The doctor is doing all his work for love of the cause now. He has not made any charges since the injunction was issued by the court restraining him from practicing medicine for a fee. The doctor expects to continue practicing without charge until the legislature shall authorize him to charge for his services.

MAN WHO CHOKED HIS CELLMATE IS TO BE SENTENCED

In Judge James A. Howell's division of the district court this morning James Burk pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree and waived time for passing of sentence. The court stated, however, that owing to the gravity of the charge, he would not pass sentence until such time as he could be more fully advised respecting the case. Sentence will be passed tomorrow morning.

When the defendant was arraigned, the court advised Burk that he was under no counsel for his defense and that the court did not desire him to act hastily in entering his plea. Burk stated, however, that he had conferred with the district attorney respecting the gravity of the charge and the penalty attached to conviction on a plea of guilty, and that he had come to the conclusion that it would be best for him to plead guilty, assurance could be had that he would be given the minimum sentence of ten years. He said that he did not care to take the statutory time for pleading, nor for the passing of sentence, and, also, that he did not care for the aid of an attorney.

District Attorney John C. Davis stated to the court that he had talked with the defendant respecting the case in all of its phases and had explained to him that the sentence would be for an indeterminate term in the state penitentiary, the board of pardons to decide whether it should be for the minimum time of ten years, or other period, or for life. Mr. Davis suggested to the court that a recommendation be sent to the board of pardons that Burk be detained in the penitentiary the minimum time, ten years.

Burk then addressed the court by saying that he and W. J. Maguire, the man killed, had some trouble in the city jail and a fight ensued.

"We had a few words," he said, "and these began to fight, Maguire striking me in the face. We clinched and he fell to the cell floor. I thought Maguire struck his head against the wall as we went down. He continued to strike me in the face and I grabbed his throat. It was all so simple and happened so quickly that I did not know just how it was done. I had hold of his throat when the officers came in.

"The doctor yesterday said that he did not think Maguire died of strangulation but of alcoholism or heart trouble, which might have been brought on through the excitement of the fight. I understand, too, that the officers say that Maguire told them when they separated us not to do anything to me, as I was a pretty good fellow."

"Was that testified to yesterday?" quickly asked Judge Howell, to which the defendant responded in the affirmative.

"Then I will not pass sentence until I learn more of the facts."

There is a possibility that the charge against Burk may be reduced to manslaughter.

Burk is a cripple, having lost his right leg up to the knee and he seems to think a few years in the penitentiary would not be much more distressing than his present life. He and Maguire were chums in a way. They were arrested Tuesday night and charged with vagrancy and placed in jail, soon after which they got into a fight, Maguire, a man past fifty years of age dying soon after the encounter. Burk was charged with murder in the second degree, had a pre-

THOUSAND MEN ARE WORKING ON THE NEW TRACKS

Superintendent S. R. Toucey of the Wyoming division of the Union Pacific railroad arrived in Ogden yesterday afternoon and was to remain in the city until tonight. The visit is the first he has made to this end of the division in several weeks and while en route, he inspected the new construction work between Wasatch and Emery.

Nearly 1000 men, the superintendent stated, are now employed on the big grading contract, both day and night shifts being worked in order to have the parallel track ready for use by fall. Nearly a dozen steam shovels are being operated at different points on the 15-mile double track right-of-way and considerable blasting is being done for the tunnels that the new stretch of track will pass through.

Extensive track improvements, in addition to the new line, are to be made on the Wyoming division according to Mr. Toucey, and some of this work is under way. The Park City branch is to be relaid with 80-pound steel, to make possible the operation of heavy power locomotives to Park City. The trackage in the Park City and Echo yards is to be improved and 80 miles of track on the main line between Cheyenne and Ogden, is to be relaid with 90-pound steel.

The Gateway bridge is to be doubled in width and double tracked and the parallel track recently laid between East Ogden and Gateway is to be extended to Gateway station, a distance of about one mile from its present terminus. Work will also be started in the near future on a new spur track at Riverdale for the accommodation of sugar beet growers, who are to build a new beet dump at that place.

For increased safety on the line between the Ogden Union terminal and East Ogden, signal bridges are to be erected over the double track, this being considered necessary on account of the loft hand operation of trains. The signals will be in view of the engine crew from the right side.

The new work planned will mean a substantial financial outlay and will markedly improve the transportation facilities of the Wyoming division.

Freight and passenger traffic between Cheyenne and Ogden on the Union Pacific in the past four months, Superintendent Toucey said, has been unequaled, showing an increase of 75 per cent, eastbound, and 50 per cent, westbound, over last year. This is considered remarkable in view of the fact that the first months of the year are usually the lean ones. The superintendent was also pleased to recount that the extra traffic had been handled without an accident.
